Reading Theory: Kolloquium für fortgeschrittene Masterstudierende, Doktoranden und Postdoktoranden

(Tues. 6-8 pm; Room: Rote Kaserne 101; Prof. Dr. Stella Butter)

This colloquium offers a relaxed environment for discussing new research in cultural and literary theory. It aims to promote lively exchange between faculty members, post/doctoral students, and advanced master students on latest developments in the field. Participants are also encouraged to present their current research project. The first session of this colloquium will concentrate on Rahel Jaeggi's immanent critique of what she calls 'forms of life'. We will then shift our attention to developments in the field of new materialisms (e.g. Elizabeth Grosz, Bruno Latour, Christian Emden). Further texts and topics will be decided together on the basis of shared interests. Members or students from other disciplines are welcome to join the sessions. The course language is English. (The first session will take place on Tues., 30th Oct. 2018.)

Registration: IPZ-members are kindly asked to register for this colloquium by sending an email to butter@uni-landau.de.
